1. INTRODUCTION

Welcome to Module TEH 111: Personal calling, religion and community.

The social work degree programme offered at the Hugonote Kollege is aimed at providing students with an opportunity to explore their own sense of purpose (i.e. personal calling). The programme is based on values that support human dignity and social justice. These values form the foundation of service delivery within communities. The purpose of this module is therefore to provide first year students in the Bachelor of Social Work Degree programme with basic knowledge, understanding and skills regarding the following aspects:

- South Africa's peoples.
- A range of relevant theories.
- The ethical requisites of the profession: An appropriate range of ethical theories and the complexities of ethical decision-making in day-to-day practice.
- The Self-vis-à-vis professional practice (personal calling, professional identity and discipleship).

The aim is to empower students to achieve the following above-threshold practice competencies:

- An appreciation for trans-disciplinary conceptualization and practice within the context of social work, and opportunities for working effectively in multi-disciplinary team.
- Heightened awareness of the power of the use of the Self in social work interventions, including social work research.
- Demonstrated ability to use strategies to facilitate praxis and consciousness-raising to challenge taken-for-granted assumptions and challenge hegemonic discourses, oppression and/or privilege.

This information forms the foundation for the Bachelor of Social Work Degree programme and will be elaborated on during the course of the four years of study. Therefore students are alerted to the fact that this study material will be used throughout the four years of study.

The module guide contains all the relevant information needed to effectively participate in the module programme and activities. Students will be provided with this module guide at the beginning of the semester. The lecturer will discuss the content with students and uncertainties will be clarified. Both the lecturer and students must sign the confirmation form at the end of this module guide as proof that the content was provided to and discussed with students. In addition, students will be provided with an opportunity to evaluate the content and presentation of this module, as well as their own participation in learning activities at the end of the semester.

2. GENERAL INFORMATION

The lecturer

_____ is responsible for the presentation and assessment of this module. She/he will be available for consultation regarding this module during consultation times that will be communicated to the students and/or per appointment. Her/his contact details are as follows: Tel: _____/ Fax: _____; e-mail: _____.

Lecture times and lecture venues

The module will be presented from 25 January to 27 May 6 on Wednesdays between 10h00 and 12h00 in Lecture room ____.

Take note: Lecture times may change. The lecturer will provide the students with the information of changes. You are therefore requested to regularly visit the notice boards on campus, as well as the MyNotes internet communication, to ensure that you are aware of any announcements regarding this module.

General information

Students are responsible to familiarise themselves with the content of the Huguenote Kollege Generic Student Guide for Degree Programmes.

The teaching and learning activities are based on the following aspects:

- Students are encouraged to move from dependency to increasing self-directedness, while utilising prior life experiences. This requires active participation in the learning process.
- Students are encouraged to make use of academic resources to add to their learning techniques and to ensure an internal process of lifelong learning.
- Interactive learning in classroom and tutorial discussions are used to explore and expose different points of view and to critically reflect on different viewpoints.

Based on the Generic Student Guide and the aspects related to teaching and learning described above, the following rules of conduct apply specifically to this module:

The manner of teaching includes class activities and lectures as well as self-study activities. The residential component related to class activities and lectures forms key to the self-study and assessment activities. Class attendance is therefore compulsory and not negotiable. The lecturer will complete class attendance registers during lectures. Should a student fail to attend a lecture, a written explanation must be submitted to the lecturer or the programme secretary within 24 hours. Failure to arrange in advance when unable to attend a lecture and/or to submit a medical certificate when applicable will be taken into consideration when admission to the examination is finalised. Please note: Should the student fail to attend 10% (3) or more lecture hours, the student will not be eligible to be admitted for examinations.

Students are expected to prepare for lectures in such a way that they are able to participate meaningfully in class discussions. Failure to prepare and participate will be taken into consideration when admission to the examination is finalised.

All the students in the class should have the opportunity to participate and learn without unnecessary disturbance. Students are expected to exhibit professional conduct at all times by e.g. being punctual, by keeping cell phones switched off and stored (e.g. in the carry bag), by not listening to music through earphones and by abstaining from using refreshments during lecture times. Expectations around conduct will be negotiated with students during the first lecture period.

Teaching method

The module content will be presented by means of lectures, class discussions, individual/group assignments, self-study activities and interactive learning. This module equals 12 credits. This relates into 120 notional hours. The hours will be utilised as follows:

- Lectures: 30 hours
- Practical application (interactive learning): 30 hours
- Assignments: 20 hours
- Self-study: 20 hours
- Class/interactive learning/assessment preparation: 16 hours
- Tests and examination: 4 hours

The module content will be presented by means of lectures, class discussions, individual/group assignments, self-study activities and interactive learning. This module equals 6 credits. This relates into 60 notional hours. The hours will be utilised as follows:

- Lectures: 30 hours
- Assignments: 10 hours
- Self-study: 10 hours
- Class/ assessment preparation: 6 hours
- Tests and examination: 4 hours

This study letter will provide students with the basic framework and information from which this module will be presented. Students are responsible to use the prescribed text book(s) for study purposes. The lecturer will provide extra information from other literature during lectures. This information will also be included in assessment tasks, tests and examinations.

3. LEARNING THEMES AND OUTCOMES

In line with the purpose of this qualification (see Section 1), this module will consist of the following learning themes:

1. The missio Dei and calling,
2. Calling and professional identity, and
3. Serving others.

The learning outcomes for this module are focused on a theological perspective to social work and, but are also directed by the SAQA guideline for the Bachelor of Social Work Degree (SAQA ID 23994). This guideline stipulates that certain exit level outcomes must be attained. Each outcome has associated assessment outcomes that describe what students should know, understand and apply.

The tables below serve as a guide for each learning theme. It explains how each theme relates to the assessments of knowledge, understanding and skills developed by students. The exit level outcome(s) and associated assessment criteria related to each theme are also provided. Students must take note of this aspect for preparation of class lectures and assessment activities.

5. ASSESSMENT

Students need to obtain 50% to pass this module. The assessment activities provided in Section 4 above are all linked to the exit level outcomes and associated assessment criteria provided in Section 3. Students will be assessed continuously throughout the module. Students will complete an assignment, 1 class test, 1 semester test and 1 formal examination.

Allocation of marks

Assignment: 20%

Class test: 10%

Semester test: 20%

Examination: 50%

The year mark will be determined by the assignments, class test and semester test and will contribute 50% to the student's final mark. The requirement to be allowed to complete the final examination is a minimum of 40% for the year mark. The formal examination will take place during the time slot allocated to examinations in the academic calendar (June - July 2016). It is the student's responsibility to take cognisance of the stipulations guiding examinations as cited in the Generic Student Guide.

The examination mark will contribute to 50% of the student's final mark, while the year mark will contribute to the other 50%.

Supplementary Assessment

Should a student forfeit an assessment opportunity a supplementary assessment opportunity will be granted on condition that an original valid medical certificate is submitted to the administration office (as indicated in the Generic Student Guide) within 24 hours of the date of the scheduled assessment opportunity. Failure to do so will disqualify the student from a supplementary assessment opportunity. It remains the student's responsibility to negotiate a date for a supplementary test/assessment opportunity with the lecturer.

6. PRESCRIBED STUDY MATERIAL

The books listed below are placed on reserve at the Huguenote Kollege library. Students may visit the library to make use of the study material as part of preparation for classes and assessment opportunities.

7. STUDENT-LECTURER CONFIRMATION

I, _____ (student name),
_____ (Student number), hereby confirm that I received the study guide for Module TEH 111: Personal calling, the church and community. The lecturer did discuss the content of this guide with me and provided me with the opportunity to –

- Ask questions related to the module and
- Provide information regarding my learning needs.

I understand that I am responsible to use this information, as well as the guidelines provided in the Generic Student Guide of the Hugonote Kollege, to ensure that I am able to effectively participate in the module and assessment activities.
